

Envel - Biography 2026

ENVEL is an internationally emerging electronic artist integrating advanced production, a distinctive vocal identity, and hybrid live performance within the contemporary melodic techno and progressive house landscape.

With formal training at Taller de Músics Barcelona and the Conservatori del Liceu, and more than a decade of industry experience, ENVEL has developed a solid profile that combines artistic sensitivity, technical mastery, and strategic vision. His career extends beyond the stage into sound design and professional education, reinforcing his multidimensional presence within the electronic music industry.

After an early phase connected to the darker side of techno — supported by respected figures in the international scene — his artistic evolution culminated in the conceptual album Who Am I (2025), a work that narrates a personal transformation from darkness to light. The album marked a defining turning point by incorporating his own voice as a central element of the project, consolidating a more emotional and performance-driven identity.

His main differentiating factor within the electronic scene is the integration of live vocals. His performances go beyond the conventional DJ set format: they are structured experiences where production, narrative, and vocal interpretation coexist in real time, creating a direct and emotional connection with the audience.

The release of Who Am I received editorial coverage from Mixmag, including dedicated features on the single “If You Come” (ft. Blanca Ross), the official album release, and his live performance at Atlantic Sound BCN. This presence in one of the most influential electronic music media platforms strengthened his international media positioning.

He has released music on Einmusika, the Berlin-based label with international recognition within the melodic techno scene, consolidating his presence in the European market.

His international expansion includes a tour across Asia and the development of new dates in South America, reflecting sustained growth and increasing demand beyond his home territory.

Beyond the stage, ENVEL maintains an active role within the industry:

- Founder of Cognition Strings
- Sound designer behind successful Beatport-charting series Synthraum and SamplesToPro
- Lecturer at Plastic Academia, with over ten years of experience mentoring producers and artists

In 2026, ENVEL stands as a complete artistic project combining performance, sonic identity, and technical authority within a contemporary electronic proposal with global projection.

"Who Am I" – A Journey of Self-Discovery

"Who Am I" is more than an album; it is a deeply personal narrative of self-discovery, a transition from darkness to light. With this project, Envel shapes Indie Techno, a genre that merges the melodic depth of Melodic Techno, the hypnotic energy of Progressive House, and the avant-garde of Indie Dance. Each track is a chapter of his evolution, where pure emotion and meticulous production come together to create an immersive sonic experience.
